Authors of

The Real Win: A Man's Quest for Authentic Success

1. Tell us a little about your relationship as quarterback and pastor/mentor. What made you decide to write a book together?
2. Why do so many guys invest their entire lives striving for the wrong kind of success? And what is the fall-out when that happens?
3. Can you describe a time where God showed you that what you thought was winning was actually losing?
4. For our women listeners, how can she encourage the men in her life, whether it's a husband, father, or son, to pursue godly manhood?
5. Why do men fall for the lie that life is only about what they achieve? If success isn't about achievements, then what does it mean to be a successful man?
6. You write about the "lack-of-leadership plague." What is it, and how men take responsibility for their duty to lead?
7. What does the real win mean for husbands? How do they successfully love their wives?
8. What examples can you share of men you know who lead their families well?
9. You write, "If you desire the real win, that means grabbing a shovel and going to work on your heart." You then list the four main idols men struggle with. What are these, and how can God heal these empty pursuits?
10. How do men find "success God's way" in their work lives? How can a wife or girlfriend partner with him in his calling?
11. What encouragement can you offer to men when they're going through trials and struggles? How can men be content in the midst of hardship?
12. What advice do you offer men about leaving a legacy? Why is being faithful to your calling so important?
13. Where can we find more information on you and the book?
