Interview Questions for Chad Hovind

Author of

Godonomics: How to Save Our Country—and Protect Your Wallet—Through Biblical Principles of Finance

1. Welcome Chad Hovind, author of Godonomics. Chad, you set out to uncover what the Bible has to say about economics. Briefly, what did you discover?
2. You write that free-market capitalism, which has produced history's highest standard of living, is upheld in Scripture. Can you explain how capitalism is God's idea?
3. You ask the question, "What would God say to America's founders?" How does this answer show that not all economic systems are equal?
4. What does Adam Smith, the father of modern capitalism, have to teach us about profit and its ability to change an entire national economy?
5. How does generosity fit into all of this?
6. Who is John Maynard Keynes? And what can we learn from him about debt and money management?
7. We live in a society that does not value the idea of living within our means. How can we, as Christians, learn to budget wisely?
8. You spend some time discussing FDR, whom many of us know from his New Deal during the Great Depression. What were the unintended consequences from his plan, and what can we learn that applies to today's economy?
9. Why is it so dangerous to exchange freedom for perceived security?
10. What about Alan Greenspan and his role in controlling the US banking system? Why do you say that a sound currency doesn't help the poor?
11. You write that many Christians are being influenced by the growing popularity of socialism and the exploitation of the term "social justice." Can you contrast this with the biblical definition of justice?
12. How does Marxism stand in direct contrast to Godonomics?
