STEVEN K. SCOTT
author of The Greatest Man Who Ever Lived

1. Steve, your rags-to-riches success story began when you discovered certain biblical principles. Tell us a little bit of your story.
2. Your newest book focuses on the life of Jesus, not just what he said, but how he lived. Tell us a little bit about how studying His life is different than studying His words, and why it is valuable to study both.
3. Through the study of His life, you discovered Jesus used six strategies to accomplish His missions. Would you provide an overview of His goals and the six strategies he used to achieve them?
4. Do these six strategies work for ordinary people? Have you seen how living these strategies have improved the personal and professional lives of your readers? Tell us a story or two.
5. Yet, as we strive to live more like Jesus, we always face struggles. What are some of the obstacles that can get in the way of a person's success and how might the six strategies of Jesus be used overcome these issues?
6. So, if a man or woman faithfully uses these strategies, what are some of the benefits that our audience/your readers will experience if they truly live the principles of Jesus?
7. In terms of rubber-meets-the-road application, how does a person start applying these principals today?
8. How do you use the strategies of Jesus in your own daily personal and professional life? Are you more successful and happier as a result?
9. How are the principles of Jesus' life, and the success many people find from implementing them, different from a prosperity gospel, get-rich-quick promise?
10. In your book, you write about the great worth of the individual, specifically how much each person is worth to God and how that is unchanging. You also talk about His desire that we be purpose-accomplished, not just purpose-driven. Tell us about the interplay of grace and works and about how they should impact our ongoing motivation?
11. Where can listeners find you and your books online?
