

Suggested Interview Questions for LISA HARPER
author of A Perfect Mess

1. You have the reputation for being an atypical Bible teacher – rumor has it that you’ve actually ridden into some retreats on a Harley Davidson, is that true?
2. Besides biking escapades, your new book, “A Perfect Mess: Why You Don’t Have To Worry About Being Good Enough For God,” includes lots of other interesting stories. Can you tell us the one about a dead goat and an accidental flashing?
3. Tell us about the title of your book – what does it mean to be a “perfect mess”?
4. This book uses the Psalms to explore the theme of God’s faithfulness and human frailty. Why did you choose that particular book of the Bible as the foundation for “A Perfect Mess”?
5. If you had to choose just one Psalm as your favorite, which one would it be and why?
6. It really sounds like this book could be used as an informal Bible study – was that your intent?
7. Do you think this book could appeal to seekers, as well as Christians?
8. You’ve spoken at many women’s conferences, including Women of Faith. What is your favorite part about speaking to groups of women?
9. What do you enjoy doing when you’re not on the road?
10. Who are a few of your favorite authors, and what books have you been reading recently?
11. I understand one of your favorite verses is Zephaniah 3:17 where it talks about God singing over us. What words do you sense God has sung over you?
