See what great love the Father has lavished on us, that we should be called children of God! And that is what we are!

TO YOUNG GIRLS EVERYWHERE

May God help you discover who he wants you to be in his time

I'm Haley. I love to help people when they're not feeling well.

My grandpa has a bad cough. I use my stethoscope to listen to his chest.

"One day, I'm going to be a doctor," I tell him.
"Then I can give medicine to people who are sick."

"God gave you a tender heart, Haley," Grandpa says.
"You would be a great doctor."

I spin around and close my eyes. I imagine wearing a white coat with a real stethoscope around my neck.

"Time to visit the next patient!"

But maybe I'll become an architect and design a hospital for sick children.

A hospital needs lots of rooms so kids can play with toys and have their families close by.
And every room needs a big window so the sun can shine in.

Or maybe I'll be a dentist so I can help people have happy smiles.
I'll give each of my patients a new toothbrush and tell them,

"Brush your teeth twice a day to keep those cavities away!"
Whatever job I do when I grow up, I want to care for people, just like God does.

I'll keep trusting God, and then I will see exactly who he wants me to be.

I'm Isabela. I like to play school.

I write spelling words on the chalkboard to help my students learn.

I spin my globe and look at all the different countries where they speak Spanish, like I do at home. "Hola, ¿cómo están?" I say.

Every weekend I teach Sunday school too.
"¡Cristo les ama!"
