

Author Biography for Kim Vogel Sawyer

Kim Vogel Sawyer

Kim Vogel Sawyer is a best-selling award author with more than one million copies of her books currently in print.

At the age of six years old, Sawyer fell in love with historical fiction reading Little House in the Big Woods by Laura Ingalls Wilder, becoming the character of Laura shivering in the cold, playing with her ragdoll, sitting by the fire and listening to Pa play his fiddle.

She read the entire series several times during her own childhood, and then to her daughters during their childhoods.

In her novels, Sawyer tries very hard to create the same vivid setting that Wilder painted for her and her daughters, in hope that readers will also become lost in her stories.

Sawyer lives in central Kansas, where she and her retired military husband, Don, run The King's Inn bed-and-breakfast www.thekingsinnbnb.com, with the help of their feline companions and savors time with her three daughters and ten grandchildren.

Sawyer is also active in her local community theater, where she enjoys performing preferably in the quirkiest roles available.

Awards include the ACFW Carol Award, the Inspirational Readers Choice Award, and the Gayle Wilson Award of Excellence.

Sawyer's books with WaterBrook Press include What Once Was Lost, Echoes of Mercy and Through the Deep Waters, scheduled to go on-sale May 6, 2014.
